Building Trades and Labor Councils Welcome Erin Chazer to the Team

Erin Chazer has joined the San Mateo Labor family in a dual role as Office Manager for the San Mateo Building Trades Council and the San Mateo Labor Council’s Assistant Executive Officer.

A South San Francisco native, Erin’s political activism began as a child when she protested Governor Schwarzenegger’s education budget cuts with the South San Francisco Unified School District chapter of the California Teachers Association.

Her involvement in politics and belief in the power citizens have to affect positive change only grew when she attended Cal Poly in San Luis Obispo, where she studied Political Science and English. She held several board positions in the College Democrats club before becoming president her senior year, when she arranged a meet-and-greet with Gavin Newsom during his campaign for governor. She also worked on the campaign of now-Congressman Salud Carbajal, engaging voters through precinct walking and phone banking.

After graduating, Erin moved back to South San Francisco and immersed herself in Peninsula politics. She serves on the board of both the Peninsula Young Democrats and the North Peninsula Democrats, and is an associate member of the San Mateo County Democratic Central Committee.

Before joining the labor and building trades councils, Erin spent the past year as a staffer for Senator Jerry Hill, where she managed the correspondence from constituents and served as a liaison between constituents and other government agencies.

Please join us in welcoming Erin; we are incredibly fortunate to have her with us.
